

Diplomat Says:

No Crack-Up in Reich; People Will Fight On

By HENRY P. McNULTY

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, Nov. 18.—A Chilean diplomat who just has arrived from Germany said today that the German people were taking more of military reverses stoically and were prepared to fight to the finish.
The diplomat, who declined the use of his name, came here by train yesterday with 56 other Chileans to be repatriated in exchange for 145 Germans in Chile.
He regarded it as unthinkable that Germany would collapse as did Italy, and said the entire country still believed fanatically in Adolf Hitler.
Despite threats of imprisonment, he said, would Germans listen to Allied broadcasts, especially the British Broadcasting Corporation, and one of the more popular jokes in vaudeville houses, "of course no one in the audience heard the BBC last night."
Bomb damage in German industrial cities was tremendous, particularly in Hamburg and Cologne, he said. Damage to Berlin mostly was concentrated in the outskirts, where war factories were situated, he said. Life in the centre of the capital was fairly normal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull told Congress today that the Moscow declarations will hasten Allied victory and help to create a post-war world free of the conflict-breeding power politics of the past.

Leniency Denied

Pair Receive 3-Year Terms For Robbery

Because of their lengthy criminal records, Chief Justice W. C. Ives in supreme court Wednesday sentenced Robert George Albert Miller, Edmontonian, to serve three years in Prince Albert penitentiary on a charge of breaking and entering a dwelling on 117 street on Oct. 13 last.

A one-month sentence was given James W. Hayes, also found guilty of the offense, but the court took into account the fact that this accused had only one previous conviction against him and that he gave information to the police that resulted in the recovery of a case of silverware stolen from the house.

Both Gerrie and Miller have records dating back to their juvenile days, and Miller has been out of jail less than three months following the serving of a sentence on a similar charge.

MAKES FURTHER PLEA

Gerrie made a futile plea for leniency to the court. He asked for half a chance to prove he could go straight, adding that he had an aged father at Vancouver whom he wished to return home. He also stated that he desired to get married.

Chief Justice Ives told him that his record was too bad to permit leniency. The court then sentenced the accused to serve three years in the penitentiary, and the judge indicated a sincere intention of giving up a life of crime, the jurist added.

Miller, who had made a request for leniency during the morning session of the court, did not make a further request when sentence was being passed.

The trio were charged with breaking and entering the home of W. R. Sherwood, 1042 11th street, on October 13 last. They were arrested the following day by Det-Sgt. M. Munro, following receipt of information that one of the trio had attempted to sell a case of jewelry.

Spirits of the men of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment are still sky-high after the hard tests of battle in Sicily and Italy. The weapons of the Canadians are generally superior to those of the enemy and there is not the slightest doubt about the superiority of the Canadian soldier over his Nazi foe.

At a time when Canadians at home seem "too optimistic" concerning the progress of the war to a soldier just back from the front, there is a lot of hard fighting ahead.

In brief, sums up the views of Major S. "Archie" Donald, an official officer of the First Bn. of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, back in Edmonton after four years' service overseas.

The campaign in Italy is almost certain to be a slow, painful proposition, the officer thinks. Terrain and weather are the two big reasons for the slowdown.

MOUNTAIN FIGHTING
The fighting now is in mountainous country where there are no surface roads. Mechanical transport bogs down. Supplies are moved mostly by mule pack train.

Rains have made of the many river beds of Italy raging torrents. Between May and October when it scarcely any rain falls, it is possible to bypass a destroyed bridge in the dry, arid river bottoms. But now all streams must be bridged. This requires time.

In the foregoing sentences, Maj. Donald painted a concise word picture of the difficulties facing the Allied armies in their current drive on Rome. In addition to natural obstacles the Nazi soldier still shows no signs of cracking on the Italian front.

Relatives of officers and men serving in the regiment can be certain the spirit of all concerned is as high as it was during the last England for the Mediterranean and that was very, very high. Maj. Donald told newspaper reporters who interviewed him at his home at 1842 112 street Wednesday afternoon.

MAJ. A. S. DONALD FLEW TO ENGLAND
Maj. Donald left Italy on Oct. 8 on a big flight of British-based aircraft in a DCA transport and Liberator bomber. He crossed to Canada by way of England and two weeks' turlough with his wife, Mrs. L. T. Donald and their child. Later he will spend some time in England.

Moscow Talks To Bring End to Power Politics

European power, rules out separate peace, forbids secret agreement and provides for collaboration in reconstruction and the maintenance of European economic stability.

The article dealing with mutual assistance was subject to "proposals by other like-minded states for common action to preserve peace and resist aggression in the post-war period." It is stated that in force until such proposals come a reality which would be superseded by a wider agreement.

MAY MODIFY PACT

It is believed that this article of the Anglo-Russian treaty, which is the basis of the Moscow discussions and prompted the contention of Secretary Hull that alliance would no longer be necessary, is, in fact, a declaration of intent, and that the Anglo-Russian treaty may be modified or possibly abrogated entirely in favor of a general agreement.

As Hull entered the jammed house chamber, senators and representatives rose to greet him with cheering and applauding. The minutes and would have lasted over half an hour, but Mr. Hull cut it short with his gavel. Hull's cabinet colleagues seated in the front of the chamber in the applause.

Apparatus by invasion, Hull outlined the background, purposes and problems of the conference at Moscow. He stated that the Anglo-Russian treaty was a necessary step towards the necessity for a permanent international organization to maintain peace.

EFFECTS WILL GROW

He described the negotiations as a dynamic entity, destined to grow and flourish until complete understanding, agreement and cooperation are achieved.

Assessing that the Moscow conference and its results were "an important step in the direction both of shortening the war and of making provision for the future," he added:

"The conference that launched a forward movement which, I am firmly convinced, will lead to extending peace and effectiveness." The press-gathered Hull, apparently excited from the discussion, turned to the back of the hall to the "grip-bench" which he completed only last Wednesday, spoke from the front of the hall, and then returned to his seat. Galleries were packed.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Hull asserted that the basic policy of international co-operation for peace and security was the "forward" in the principles and spirit of the Atlantic Charter, which was declared by United Nations.

Unless that is done, he said, the nations again will be victims of destructive forces of international anarchy which in the past have organized international relations to the world's sorrow.

"We can and will remain masters of our own fate" through co-operation with other nations, he said, "likewise intent upon security," he declared.

He said today, "said the 72-year-old statesman, 'shall be judged in the future by the manner in which we meet the responsibilities that rest upon us, and alone in winning peace and security for the world.'"

PROUD OF ACTION

"As an American, I am proud of our breadth and height of vision and our determination to achieve peace and security," he said, "and I am proud of the action we have taken to achieve peace and security."

Hull said the United Nations are on the offensive and that "our enemies are suffering from defeat after defeat."

But victory, he added, will be hastened only as the United Nations continue to press their advantage with the slightest relaxation or deviation.

Hull said he went to Moscow by direction of President Roosevelt to discuss basic international relations in the light of principles to guide the world in the future.

IMPORTANT STEP

It has never been my fortune to attend an international conference as there was greater determination on the part of the participants to move forward to a spirit of mutual understanding and confidence."

He said the Moscow conference "is believed to have been an important step in the direction both of shortening the war and of making provision for the future."

Hull paid personal tribute to the direction of President Roosevelt to discuss basic international relations in the light of principles to guide the world in the future.

He said he was deeply impressed by the Russian people and their quality of their patriotism.

Comforts for Allied Seamen Again Sought

Next week Canadians will be asked to give generously to the men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Merchant Marine through the agency of the Navy League of Canada.

The league is a civilian organization supported and maintained by voluntary subscriptions and is charged by the dominion government with the care of sailors, sailors' wives and children.

An important phase of the Navy League activity is the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Merchant Marine through the agency of the Navy League of Canada.

At most camps the facilities were supplied by the Navy League while training was under the supervision of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

OPERATES CLUBS

Another major activity of the Navy League is the operation of general or local clubs for the benefit of merchant seamen, naval ratings and junior officers of both navies.

At Halifax there is a complete club and dormitory which has a few of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Merchant Marine through the agency of the Navy League of Canada.

Meeting Told: Extension and Development Of Highways Will Provide Post-War Jobs for Thousands

CALGARY, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Highway extensions and development will provide useful employment for many thousands in the re-adjustment period following the war, Hon. A. T. Proctor, minister of highways and transportation for Saskatchewan, and president of the Canadian Good Roads Association, declared in his report to the annual meeting of the association here today.

"Details are now being worked out so that our highways department may be ready to take into immediate action if, and when it may be deemed advisable to do so during the reconstruction period," Hon. Mr. Proctor said.

A survey of the road building program in the past few years by provincial governments has shown that the most comprehensive work planned in the history of Canadian road building.

"During the past three years road building in Canada has been more or less at a standstill and the deteriorating effect on the maintenance has been found in many sections of the country."

"The outbreak of war has had its reflection in the various new regulations and restrictions on the use of equipment, machinery and materials. The many necessary war-time restrictions have been heavily on road building."

"Notwithstanding curtailments and restrictions, however, the satisfaction of knowing that Canada generally, and industrial Canada in particular, has contributed in a large measure towards the winning of the war."

"When we scrutinize the figures and material and equipment turned out by Canadian factories and now being used by the Allied nations, it is a fact that we are willingly accept these restrictions as being imperative for freedom and security."

"I am satisfied that those who have had the opportunity of attending our annual conference have observed a spirit of unity and co-operation which we have seen in the past, and we are confident that the after-war period and jobs assurance in road building in Canada will continue to expand in all its phases."

"There is no conviction that there is no other single investment so flexible and advantageous and so certain to produce a high rate of return as the building of good roads."

"Highways are self-liquidating and, in addition, promote the development of the country. Road improvement lowers transportation costs directly and indirectly for those who use or are served by the highway."

Hon. Mr. Proctor expressed appreciation of the hospitality extended delegates by the government of Alberta.

Eden's message said the four-power declaration at Moscow was a landmark in the history of the world, and that it was a step towards the achievement of peace and security.

There would be no attempt to impose a sort of great power dictatorship on the world, he said.

President Roosevelt said that "in the years and centuries past, the world has been torn apart by the forces of civilization and barbarism, and the human race must always maintain the initiative."

Churchill's message said that the world is now at a crossroads, and that the human race must choose between peace and war.

No Extra Gasoline To Get Ute Trees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—United States Christmas trees growers, including that eminent arborist, Franklin D. Roosevelt, were confronted with transportation restrictions last night. The office of defense transportation instructed its motor transport district offices to deny truck operators extra gasoline for hauling Christmas trees.

"Details are now being worked out so that our highways department may be ready to take into immediate action if, and when it may be deemed advisable to do so during the reconstruction period," Hon. Mr. Proctor said.

A survey of the road building program in the past few years by provincial governments has shown that the most comprehensive work planned in the history of Canadian road building.

"During the past three years road building in Canada has been more or less at a standstill and the deteriorating effect on the maintenance has been found in many sections of the country."

"The outbreak of war has had its reflection in the various new regulations and restrictions on the use of equipment, machinery and materials. The many necessary war-time restrictions have been heavily on road building."

"Notwithstanding curtailments and restrictions, however, the satisfaction of knowing that Canada generally, and industrial Canada in particular, has contributed in a large measure towards the winning of the war."

"When we scrutinize the figures and material and equipment turned out by Canadian factories and now being used by the Allied nations, it is a fact that we are willingly accept these restrictions as being imperative for freedom and security."

"I am satisfied that those who have had the opportunity of attending our annual conference have observed a spirit of unity and co-operation which we have seen in the past, and we are confident that the after-war period and jobs assurance in road building in Canada will continue to expand in all its phases."

"There is no conviction that there is no other single investment so flexible and advantageous and so certain to produce a high rate of return as the building of good roads."

"Highways are self-liquidating and, in addition, promote the development of the country. Road improvement lowers transportation costs directly and indirectly for those who use or are served by the highway."

CALGARY, Nov. 18.—(CP)—A recount loomed as a possibility in the city general election when the 11th and final count under the proportional representation system at 5 o'clock this morning left Ald. E. Starr, C.G.T.A., and Ald. W. S. Southern, Labor, tied with 2,117 votes each for the sixth position on city council.

Ald. Starr was declared elected by city clerk J. M. Miller under the P.R. law, which required a majority of 2,118 votes.

United Nations Hold Advantage Of Initiative

Large Municipal Districts Plan Is Ranned Sharply

CALGARY, Nov. 18.—(CP)—

The Alberta governments larger municipal districts plan came under fire at yesterday's session of the 28th annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts.

Hon. E. C. Gerhart, provincial minister of municipal affairs and his deputy, A. Scouter, have the front of the attack launched by delegates from the convention floor.

The association had been ignored by the government in setting up the larger districts, despite offers of the executive to co-operate, declared J. M. Whetzel, Chancellor, Vice-president.

SCORES TREATMENT

Representatives of central Alberta municipalities had been treated "like 15-year-olds" when they had listened to the government in connection with the larger district plan, said W. J. Edgar, Innisfail.

"We are still a democratic country, however, and in a few years we will have an opportunity to say whether the districts are to be larger or smaller," he added.

The association passed a resolution condemning the proposal of the government that councils in areas be elected by the larger districts now being established by the government throughout the province.

The resolution supported nomination and election of councillors by districts as being much preferable, "especially in the enlarged units, where distances are so great that ratepayers are too intellectually for councillors served over the whole enlarged municipal area."

STORM OF QUESTIONS

Mr. Gerhart and Mr. Scouter were pelted with questions from delegates after they had outlined the larger municipal district plan. The government "suffered from the large districts established throughout the province by the end of this year," said Mr. Gerhart, with the exception of one or two places in the north, where the advantages of larger units were in doubt.

Mr. Scouter explained that the government proposed election of councillors at large in each district for the first election only. After the first election, the vote could be by divisions, if the majority of the residents of the district favored that method.

Mr. Gerhart had not advanced a single concrete reason why the larger district plan was being introduced "being turned" at this time, said George Clark, Okla.

LONG PUBLIC RECORDS

The municipal councillors now serving had a long record of public service, he said, and where the present municipal institutions were functioning successfully and meeting their obligations, "as some higher governments were failing to do," there was no point in changing the setup, he said.

Another delegate criticized the larger unit plan on grounds that the government had not adopted any uniform size for the larger units and the map of the larger districts "looked like a crazy patchwork."

$400,000 Damage In Hospital Fire

By GUY BEAUDRY

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Fire, which at first threatened a major catastrophe, struck the Hotel Dieu hospital here last night, but was brought under control within an hour after 45 patients had been evacuated to other parts of the 260-bed institution. The blaze was confined to the administrative wing.

Quick action on the part of the hospital staff and the Montreal fire brigade resulted in early control of the flames which originated in the cellar of the old four-story, pre-war building but not before X-ray equipment, an operating theatre and administrative files had been destroyed.

Dr. Oscar Mercier, head of the medical staff, estimated damage at about $400,000 and said the gutted portion of the hospital would be entirely rebuilt.

Only casualties were two fire-fighters who were overcome by smoke. They quickly recuperated after oxygen treatment.

First American Soldier Escapes Jap Prison Camp

SEATTLE, Nov. 18.—(AP)—With the distinction of being the first reported member of the United States armed forces to escape from a Japanese prison camp, Capt. Samuel C. Grashio, 25, of Spokane, came back to his home state yesterday after almost a year behind barbed wire and after a long odyssey.

Captain Grashio, then a lieutenant, was captured in the fall of 1941 in the Philippines. He remained light-lipped about how he escaped from his captors.

"The Japs kept moving us from one prison to another," he told Post-Intelligencer reporter, "Mostly, though, I was in the Philippine camp from which I escaped. I had one plan escape. There isn't much else to hope for."

"With me, it was a matter of life and death. I would, of course, have been shot on sight outside the compound."

Open Negotiations On New Agreement For Miners in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—

A new start was made yesterday toward negotiation of a contract between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and owners of soft coal mines.

At the invitation of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, now operating the mines for the United States government, Lewis and operators representing a majority of the soft coal tonnage, conferred at the interior department. They talked for two hours and agreed to meet again Thursday.

At the same time, there were reports that anthracite operators are ready to undertake negotiation of a contract and may meet with U.M.W. representatives next week.

Stalin "May Watch" War Against Japs

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—

After Russia's war with Germany is ended, a foreign correspondent said last night, Premier Stalin "may probably sit on the side lines and let the United States and England carry the brunt of the Far Eastern attack."

"This would give Stalin an advantageous bargaining position for the kind of settlement he wants in eastern Europe," William H. Chamberlin of the Christian Science Monitor told the opening session of the University of Rochester's conference of "Unconquered Nations in the Pacific."

Expressing the opinion the Russian leader would "most likely" strike at Japan "when the island empire is reeling under air and naval blows," from the Anglo-Saxons, Chamberlin declared that "Stalin is not the kind of man who does something for nothing."

The least he would expect as the price of intervention," Chamberlin said, "would be a restoration of Russia's former privileged economic position in North Manchuria."

Willkie Urges Moscow Accord For All Nations

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—

Wendell L. Willkie urged last night that the Moscow accord reached by Britain, the United States, Russia and China be made "the embryo of a general and vital international understanding" by enlarging participation to include all the United Nations, and eventually all countries.

He said in an address prepared for delivery at the closing session of the New York Herald Tribune forum that the smaller countries must be given a start immediately in planning war and peace objectives. He added that the confidence of the conquered peoples must be won by working with "the antifascist forces of each country."

PSYCHOLOGICAL HURDLE

"Without at this moment arguing the merit or demerit of the political policy we have so far pursued in regard to these countries," he said, "we must recognize the fact that the policy has set up against us a psychological hurdle in the minds of the conquered peoples."

"They fear that our policy in North Africa, and certainly in Italy, represents a determination to prevent social and political evolution on the continent. This fear we must overcome."

Later in his address, Willkie said there are "still frightening gaps in our moral and still soft spots in our political warfare."

FRENCH RELATIONS

"Consider for a moment our present relations with French leaders, banned from the Moscow talks, marooned in a sort of North African limbo, one day recognized, the next day undermined," he said.

"Or consider our relations with Italy, where we have given the Italian people good reason to be confused by our actions and by our inability to distinguish between our friends and our enemies. Or think of our dithering over the reactionary oligarchs of Spain..."

The Moscow agreements must be supplemented, he said, with an economic understanding, "otherwise we shall be building for the future on a foundation of sand."

Ottawa, CBC Battle Looms On Programs

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—(CP)—War Services Minister LaFleche said yesterday a tentative Canadian Broadcasting Corporation proposal for a program series entitled "Of Things To Come" has been laid aside pending study of the plan by "competent CBC authorities."

Gen. LaFleche said the laying aside was on the personal decision of Dr. Austin Frigon, acting general manager of the CBC, who is in "critical form" style with several speakers on each broadcast, discussing various aspects of individual topics, was originally scheduled to start next Tuesday.

"FRICION" REPORTED

(Reports published in Toronto and elsewhere yesterday said "Fricion" had occurred between the federal government and the CBC over the new series. Edward Corbett of the Canadian Adult Education Association which was to sponsor the broadcast was quoted as saying the government opposed the series on grounds it was "far too political.")

Earlier Dr. Frigon told The Canadian Press most programs are subject to criticism from one source or another but that he knew of no serious criticism of the new series—nothing that he would call "Fricion."

It was understood some of the proposed titles for individual broadcasts in the series were, "If we can do things for war, why can't we for peace," "What change is there of full employment," "Public vs. private enterprise," "Social security," "Health of the nation," "The British North America Act," and "One people, two cultures," a discussion of position of English-speaking and French-speaking citizens in Canada.

It was understood a special meeting of the board of governors of the CBC has been called at which the proposed broadcast series will be considered.

Says Canada Offers Most For Emigres

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Dr. Griffin Taylor, head of the department of geography at the University of Toronto, said yesterday that industrial expansion, based on fuel and metal resources, will account for settlement and development of the remaining sparsely populated areas of the world.

Addressing the Herald-Tribune forum on current problems, he said the rush to pioneer lands in this century is no longer outstanding largely due to the drop in the birth rate in most civilized countries, Australia and Canada, he said, appear to offer the best opportunities for future settlement because of the climate and natural resources of their undeveloped areas.

Speaking on "Geography and Human Planning," Dr. Taylor said Canada eventually will support 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 people before its 2,000,000 square miles of unpopulated land are cultivated.

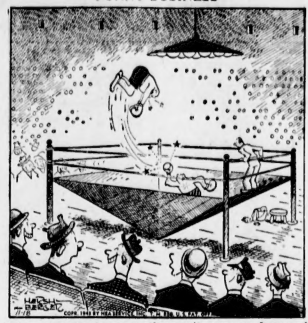

Although in much of this area the cold is intense and there is "often too much water," he said, Canada is rich in oil, ore and lumber resources which lie adjacent to the major international air routes of the near future.

"Canada, however, is not a satisfactory country for unassisted immigrants in its present condition. Lack of drainage is a greater drawback than the short duration of soil and the drainage of these huge areas of fertile swampy soil can only be carried out by vast government expenditures. The present is not the time to do this but it will be done when the better parts of newly settled Canada are saturated."

MENTIONS ALBERTA

In discussing Canada's population possibilities, Dr. Taylor mentioned Alberta's coal and tar sands. He said the estimated coal resources of Alberta total some 600,000,000 tons, the second largest deposit in the world. The tar sands of McMurray contain large deposits of bitumen "in which oil enough to supply the whole world."

U.S. Bombers Raid Jap-held Islands

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., Nov. 18.—(AP)—United States heavy bombers raided Jaluit and Makin in the Marshall Islands and Atolia in the Gilbert group yesterday. The raid was the first since the U.S. Navy's attack on the Japanese base at Rabaul in New Guinea.

Many fires were started in hangars, shops and fuel dumps at the Jaluit Atoll.

It was the third successive day on which bombers of Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale's 7th Air Force had struck against Japanese bases in the central Pacific area in an offensive which the General said would be continued until they become "completely untenable."

There was no enemy interception at any point in the Nov. 18 raid and no damage to American planes or personnel.

Battle-Tested City Soldiers In High Spirits

modern battle tactics for six months at Kingston, Ont.

Although he did not actually see the Canadian soldiers in action, Maj. Donald said they are a bit too sure of an early end to the war. Maj. Donald more than hinted that in a couple of pointed observations.

"As skilled, hard fighters, Canadian soldiers are a high regard for the ability of the German soldier. The German does not quit until he is right on top of them, the officer said.

"The morale of the Germans in Italy was still good at the time I left. They still convinced they would win the war. In 1940, they were not so arrogant as Nazi armies that we helped round up during the Battle of Britain in 1940, but the enemy soldiers we saw in Italy were still a confident lot," Maj. Donald added.

FOUGHT IN SICILY

The Loyd Edmonton Regiment experienced all its fighting in the Sicilian campaign against Nazi soldiers. When asked if the Canadians had been in the Italian campaign, the Edmonton officer smiled broadly and replied:

"We were just not a fight as far as the Italians are concerned," he said.

The Italian declaration of war against Germany may have better results than the Italian campaign would indicate but the Allied armies in Italy have just chucked the war to the east.

Maj. Donald related one highly amusing incident to illustrate the conduct of Italian troops before the surrender.

"Capt. Alex. Gilchrist (former headmaster of the school) was seriously wounded in Italy) was in charge of some troops who were ordered to occupy the town of Sicily. In Sicily, Canadian tanks fired three rounds into the town and then the troops moved in. Capt. Gilchrist spent the entire day, bundling up about 1,100 Italian prisoners."

The Italians had four of their own tanks in Sicily and they were in service for the Edmonton troops to expel the roundup and capture of the enemy soldiers. Italian soldiers even went with the trucks, making trip after trip to hauling points for more prisoners. No guards were required," he said.

Although the Canadians have better weapons than the Nazis the latter still excel in fine precision marksmanship of every kind. Maj. Donald said. The Nazi marksmanship is one of the finest in the world. The Canadians have better equipment than the Germans.

SOME PERISCOPE!

"That is some periscope," Maj. Donald said. "It magnifies objects miles away by 30 times. Set behind a rock the enemy can observe every foot of ground over an immense area."

The Germans never give away their position until attacked by the body of the opposing force, the officer said.

"They would let our advance scouting parties light through without firing and then open up on the main attacking force. But a direct hit is very long to learn. We soon found out that if a scouting party returned with a report they could discover no Germans out in front that was the time to be really careful," the major explained.

One of the highlights of the campaign in Sicily and Italy was the visit from General Bernard Montgomery, great commander of Britain's famed Eighth Army of "desert rats" with which the Loyd Edmonton Regiment served.

A civilian identification as Herbert Naimon of Toronto also was taken to hospital.

Uncensored News Reports Declared Need After War

MANCHESTER, Nov. 18.—(CP)—The right of newspaper correspondents to send uncensored dispatches from any part of the world must be a part of the peace, John S. Knight, publisher of the Akron (O.) Beacon Journal and Miami (Fla.) Herald, declared last night.

"As part of the peace we must protect the right of our world news agencies to gather honest, unbiased, truthful news in the reform and reconstituted countries now in the hands of the enemy," Knight told a meeting of the English Speaking Union.

"The people are entitled to honest, accurate news, he said, and after the war should not be forced to swallow governmental propaganda handed out by national governments and the press subsidized to distribute official government news."

also of the Edmonton Regiment for distinguished and gallant conduct during the Sicilian campaign. The First Division also received a visit from Lt. Gen. A. L. McNaughton, commanding officer of the Canadian Army overseas.

In addition to Lt. Col. Jefferson, Maj. Donald mentioned names of several other well-known Edmontonians, who have distinguished themselves in the hard fighting.

Among those sending greetings home, Maj. Donald recalled Maj. T. G. MacKay, Lt. Col. G. MacKay, Capt. Pat Tighe, who has been wounded, Lt. John A. Dougan, M.C. and Lt. E. E. Boyd.

Maj. Donald said he thinks Lt. Boyd lived on the South Side of the river, another member of the Side by, who served as Maj. Donald's aide, who was killed in action. Edmonton laid who sends best wishes back to family and friends, as does Bill Davies, a Wolfram from Glenview, who is also serving with The Loyd Edmonton Regiment.

Li Dougan, recently decorated, was described as a "fine officer, possessing unlimited courage."

TWO TIGHT FIGHTS

Leonforte and Saint Vival were two tight fights for The Loyd Edmonton Regiment in Sicily.

It was a hard battle when the regiment attacked during the night, running up against four German Tiger tanks in the corner of a street. It was there that Capt. Tighe won his Military Cross.

He required six days to occupy the valley.

Of his own part in these hard fights, he said, he was "very proud." He admitted, under strong prodding, that he had "a few close shaves," quickly adding "we all had."

In one hard battle Maj. Donald was a target for German machine gunners. He was hit in the arm, but the wound was not serious. The latter was hit at the time.

His own company was a support unit with mortars and Bren carriers.

He and his men had a difficult time getting through to the front lines over muddy, virtually impassable terrain with mud trains. The officer said a high tribute to the Allied air forces.

"Had it not been for the magnificent aerial support, we could never have completed the Sicilian campaign in 18 months."

FEW GERMAN PLANES

The Canadians rarely saw a German plane in Sicily. Only the odd one got through to harass the Allied bombers overhead on the way to blast the enemy all through the campaign, he said.

For a time in the campaign the Americans were on one flank the Canadian First Division.

Film Exchange Building Razed In Toronto Fire

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP)—A three-alarm fire following an explosion in a downtown film exchange building last night left the six-story structure a smouldering shell and sent at least 20 persons to hospital.

Five electric power transformers outside the building blew out, plunging the district in darkness except for pillars of fire shooting from the building, located at Victoria street and Dundas.

Shortly after firemen arrived a second explosion sent a wall of flame across Victoria street, knocking down fireman Edward J. Torney, who was taken to hospital suffering first degree burns.

A civilian identification as Herbert Naimon of Toronto also was taken to hospital.

EVEN as some of the most commonplace things of yesterday seem oddly fashioned to us, so to those who lived in 1868 many of our simplest benefits would have appeared incredible.

For instance, who could have foreseen that Libby's "Gentle Press" Tomato Juice would become the most popular fruit juice in Canada? In tens of thousands of Canadian homes it is in daily demand as a palatable health drink providing an excellent source of the essential vitamins A and C.

Add to this the millions of users of over 100 different Libby's Foods and you have a mental picture of the great change in the eating habits and the improved living standards of today as compared to 75 years ago. The nourishing goodness, exquisite flavour and rich variety of Libby's line demonstrate how the passing of the years has brought vastly better living within the reach of Canada's humblest homes. Libby's are proud of the fact that as the processors of the largest variety of canned foods in the world Libby's have made a real contribution to a higher standard of living during the past 75 years. NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—When the year-end review is written next month, statistics are expected to show that U.S. horse racing, professional football and professional boxing enjoyed unusual prosperity during 1945; whereas major league baseball and college football fell off in attendance, and college basketball was about normal.

Racing unquestionably enjoyed its most fabulous year because of the public's steeped-up war prosperity which enabled small-time around-the-circuit bettors to meet the rather high admissions at the tracks, and enabled the normal $200 mutual better to boost his wagers to $5.00 or $10.00 on a race.

Professional football, generally played on Sundays, proved a well-earned diversion for thousands of busy war workers, who were unable to break loose from their jobs on other days.

Boxing, however, was not its most successful year—nor its most profitable. The big fight between Max Baer and Louis, which was expected to draw a million spectators, was postponed because of the war. The only big fight that took place was the one between Max Baer and Louis, which was expected to draw a million spectators.

Many, we can recall a year when boxing flourished in so many cities and towns throughout the country. National weekly fight schedules—though they merely skim the cream—are beginning to resemble quarters.

This widespread fight activity prevails although the game has lost temporarily a large and choice lot of its fans—the millions of young men now in service.

Moreover, boxing shows, staged at night, still must compete with the more popular attractions—theatres, clubs, nightclubs and circuses, which are running full blast in all sections. If the average fan has more money to spend in the past, he still has plenty of places to "blow it" at night—higher prices. And the game has lost a large and choice lot of its fans—the millions of young men now in service.

Rugby Storm Rising Over Place of Final

By LARRY ROGERS

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1945, by British United Press

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—With the eastern Canada football final coming up this Saturday, there appears to be another of the annual feuds. The feud is brewing over the issue of where the Dominion final will be played this year.

The constitution of the Canadian Rugby Union calls for the annual Grey Cup classic to be played in Toronto's Varsity Stadium this year.

The good citizens of Hamilton feel that the Dominion final should be played on the well-served surface of their stadium this year—constitution or no constitution.

The Hamilton sports public feels that its backing of the Wildcats this year at the box-office—plus the fact of the Toronto fans toward O.R.U. football this fall—makes Hamilton's Civic Stadium the obvious place for this year's final.

EXPECTED TO STICK
The C.R.U. officials are expected to stick by their constitution as usual come hell or high water.

The annual east-west feud arising over the C.R.U.'s rule interpretations and residence regulations at the stadium and the prairie provinces practically ready to secede from the Dominion, so angry had they become.

The Dominion football final has developed into Canada's greatest sport spectacle, whether because of, or in spite of the C.R.U.'s, beside the point, and it's to be hoped that it will be played wherever the most people can see the best game on Nov. 27 next.

BOMBERS UNCONCERNED
The outcome of the issue will depend largely on the attendance at Saturday's eastern final between the Wildcats and Lachine R.C.A.F. of Montreal. If Toronto fans turn out in large numbers, the big Hamilton argument will be quieted.

But if only a few thousand turn up for the game, you can look for a mighty roar of protest from the Mountain City unless the Grey Cup tilt is moved to their home field.

The Hamiltonians haven't seen a Dominion final since Fritz Hanson ran his side into the ground in the 1935 classic.

Coach Rex Threlfall of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, playing in Winnipeg Tuesday that the C.R.U. would stick to its guns and have the east-west final played in Toronto's Varsity Stadium where some 20,000 can be seated.

However Threlfall said he and his team was unconcerned as to where they play.

HAMILTON COACH PICKS ALL-TIME TEAM
On the subject of football, Canada's coach of the year, big Brian Timmis of Hamilton, has picked an all-time all-star team composed of players he's performed with or against during his 15 years' association with the gridiron.

Along the line, the old man of the mountains likes Eric Calk at centre, Alex Detman and Gary Kilgus at inside, and Dave Sprague at middle—all of whom performed with the old Hamilton Tigers in their Dominion championship days.

Ted Reeves, the sports-writing Toronto man who is overseas with Coast Smythe's battalion now, gets the call at the other inside post, while Bud Thomas of Queens takes one end post and Gay Peir of Tigers gets the other.

In the backfield, Timmis couldn't separate Chuck Welch and Bill for the spot at kicking back. For running back it was a toss-up between the war, while Teddy Morris and Bill Stukas of Argos got the call at defensive half and quarterback respectively.

Still With Currie Army

Anderson No Longer Coach
Can Concentrate on Playing

By PTE. TOM FOLEY

CALGARY, Nov. 15.—The word around Alberta's service hockey club, now training for the coming season, is that 2nd Lieut. Thomas Linton Anderson of the Canadian army, Currie Barracks, Calgary, should be about ready to show the multitude why he won the Hart Trophy in the N.H.L. two years back.

Anderson was expected to clear this point up last year when he spent the season as a playing coach of the Currie army squad. But it was the N.H.L. star might be alright for some people—but didn't work out with Anderson.

Anderson, to put it bluntly, had himself a very bad time last semester.

He played some good hockey, but it was obvious that he was a much different Tommy Anderson when of Anders fans can when performing before the confused customers in these parts. It's the general opinion that the business of being playing coach and still trying to look like an N.H.L. star might be alright for some people—but didn't work out with Anderson.

WONDERING OTHER PLAYERS
"There's no doubt about it," quoth Thomas L. "Last year I'd had a very bad time last semester. He played some good hockey, but it was obvious that he was a much different Tommy Anderson when of Anders fans can when performing before the confused customers in these parts. It's the general opinion that the business of being playing coach and still trying to look like an N.H.L. star might be alright for some people—but didn't work out with Anderson."

Anderson suggests, it was quite grim and repeatedly had drastic results on Frank McCool, the former Currie goaltender. While Anderson was deep in thought, upon some of his pensive form and a glimpse of the unfortunate McCool. Once the season this caused the fans to suggest that if Anderson could be the most valuable player in the National Hockey League, McCool could be the villain of the moment.

This year however, Elmer Piper has been assigned to do the concentrating for Anderson, which leaves the Anderson cerebrum free to work full time on the business of playing hockey.

GOING STRONG
Since he's been going great guns in practice, and on the grounds that a guy must be some hockey player to win the Hart Trophy when the N.H.L. was the best hockey league in the world—it is reckoned that a new name Anderson will be seen in action this year.

In fact it seems that Currie did a neat stroke of business in turning the coaching of their park aggregation over to Piper. They not only got a first-rate hockey coach who can sit on the bench and worry away unimpaired by opposing forces, but they also got one of the defencemen in the business named Tommy Anderson.

Monarchs Take Manitoba Opener
WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—(CP)—Winnipeg Monarchs defeated St. James Canadians 10-2 in the opening of the Manitoba Junior hockey south division three-team league last night.

Tommy Fowler led the Monarchs scoring three goals and assisting in three others. John Fargier, with three, Dalton Barkwell, with two, Jack Korman and Spencer Tatehatch got the other four for the winners. Tom May and Jack Nixson scored for St. James.

There are approximately 11,500 beds for the treatment of tuberculosis in Canada.

Timmis recalled the men with whom he played in Regina where he spent three years with the "Mounties". The Roughriders team of 1929-30 were westerners before the east-west game was inaugurated but Brian figures those "Riders never were surprised. They had huge lineups of long experience like Bill Ryan, Tiny Skyles, Bill Creighton, Tex Rennebach, Jerry Crapper, Al Urquhart.

Timmis was a line-smashing flying wing then in a backfield that included Heinie Rogers, Freddy Wilson and Cecil Browne. Many of the players of that day, both east and west, were 60-minute men yet they carried on in top condition year after year. Brian himself played until he was 38.

Tommy advanced present teams are weakened by loss of manpower and believes that the war is over, returned men will give the games renewed vitality.

His confidence in the future of Canadian youth athletes is shown by his opinion of the 24-year-old Krol. Timmis played against the best in his day and he claims the Wildcats' backline is the most versatile of the all. "Joe has no peer as a forward passer. He can run, plunge, receive a pass or a punt. He's an expert at pass defence and a sure kicker."

"Canada is building men," says Timmis. "Maybe the depression has retarded a bit but a few years ago the athletes were on the small side. Now we're on the upswing of the cycle and there's a trend toward tall, well-built youngsters. You can bet the future of Canadian football is in good hands."

Walker Cooper Is Accepted by Army

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Walker Cooper, 28-year-old captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, was accepted by the army at Jefferson Barracks reception center Wednesday under an "A" classification or limited service because of a physical limitation.

The baseball player was not even in as a soldier immediately but he will be called up later in full quota, the center's public relations office said. Army pictures were taken of the catcher's finger which was fractured and dislocated in the final world series game. Cooper is married and has a child.

Anderson was expected to clear this point up last year when he spent the season as a playing coach of the Currie army squad. But it was the N.H.L. star might be alright for some people—but didn't work out with Anderson.

Alberta's Pioneer Days Decaded at Annual Round-Up

Early Residents of West Renew 'Auld' Acquaintance With Laughter and Song

Gay laughter and the chatter of "auld acquaintance" resounded through the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night when 300 people attended the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old-Timers' Association annual round-up, banquet and dance. Greetings of "hello, glad to see you again this year," were to be heard on every side.

I Saw Today

Guests passed through the doorway of a realistic log cabin at the entrance of the passageway to the main dining room. The round tables, and mezzanine floor of the hotel were packed with groups of old-timers recalling happy memories. Many gaily wrinkled old faces were transformed by laughter at a remembered joke and dimmed eyes twinkled at the memory of a near-catastrophe which the passing of time has made amusing.

Guests referring to the "good old days" mean that period in the history of the west when life was simple and hard. When Red river carts and covered wagons lumbered over crude trails and horses and oxen belted in mud.

Young voices and young laughter rose above that of the old, as first second and third generations were represented at the gathering.

Dinner was served at individual tables accommodating parties of six and eight and a day after with guests calling back and forth to one another and joining in the fun.

A few minutes before he was due to drop his mines in enemy camp, Stirling bomber captain, suddenly found himself over an enemy camp. According to information received here Thursday.

Flak shells burst around him and one struck the port engine. The Stirling captain, however, was not thrown off his stride. He continued his flight looking at the flak through the roof of his cockpit.

Recognizing the righted the huge bomber, got clear of the convoy and dropped his mines in the right place.

"We were coming down ready to make our bombing run when light flak hit us on the port wing. Below us were several ships of an enemy convoy. I counted five light cruisers and there were other ships too."

Walters when he returned to base.

"The flak knocked us over, and I could not get my back engine under control for a few seconds," he continued. "The bomb bay doors opened and I told him to rev up the engines, and I opened the throttle as the bombs were being released. The instruments had all stopped working, and it was not until I realized we were almost over our target that I was able to get the engine under control again."

Walters, who was a staff pilot and instructor in Canada before coming to the United States, was on his third operational sortie and his second trip to Europe. Both of his previous trips were uneventful, and both were to Hamburg.

On the first, the aircraft had come back on three engines, and on his first trip as captain some friendly bomber dropped two incendiaries through the Stirling's starboard wing narrowly missing the fuel tanks.

Girl Operator At Switchboard Northern Post

Little "Mickie" Buchanan (whose real name is Margaret), of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, sits at the switchboard of a telephone exchange in the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

Her duty calls her to the farthest northern point of the province where newspapers are seldom seen.

Perhaps she had not been told that, perhaps through her aviator, she had heard that her brother, who has been awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French National Government, was on his third operational sortie and his second trip to Europe.

Both of his previous trips were uneventful, and both were to Hamburg. On the first, the aircraft had come back on three engines, and on his first trip as captain some friendly bomber dropped two incendiaries through the Stirling's starboard wing narrowly missing the fuel tanks.

Hearing Ends On Complaints Of City Miners

Sittings of the Royal Commission inquiring into wages and working conditions prevailing in the Edmonton and East Colliery coal fields concluded Wednesday afternoon.

The East Colliery miners are seeking wage rates similar to those paid in the other coal fields of the province.

It was claimed that the award for contract miners was too low, and was only 10 cents per day compared with a $1.18 increase given miners working at 40¢ rates.

NO SPEEDY ACTION
 In adjusting the commission sittings, Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor, chairman, said that he wished it to be clearly understood that the commission had completed the deliberations on the main demands from the city miners.

He said that many lengthy sittings would have to be held in order to deal with the demands of both sides, and also that it might be necessary to send engineers into the East Colliery and Drumheller mines to determine the conditions of mining conditions in these fields.

Mr. Justice O'Connor stated that the main demands would probably be met, but that it would be necessary to hold further sittings in order to deal with the demands of both sides.
